TWO NEW STATES. Report on the Admission of Montana and Washington, January 20th.-In its report upon the Senate bill to provide for the admission of Washington Territory as a State of the Union, the House committee on Territories says the vote cast at the last election in that portion of Idaho which the bill proposed to add to the new State was 4,646, which represents a population of 21,836. Adding this to the population of Washington, the new State will come into the Union with 197,095 people, or 25,000 more than the established unit of representation. The committee is of the opin-ion that Washington Territory has all the elements of wealth, intelligence and local development in every particular to enable after showing that the population at the last election was 150,472, says it would seem that Montana contains a larger population than the ratio of representation in Congress. Copious quotations are made from the Governor's recent message, exhibiting the financial condition of the Ter-ritory, its vast natural resources, and heavy exports of mineral and annual product.

The committee then recommends that the Montana, and that the Constitutions of the proposed States of Washington and Montana be submitted to Congress instead of to the President, as provided in the Senate bill. Another amendment proposed to the bill is the requirement that the Constitutions of the new States shall include a provision forbidding polygamous association or cohabitation within their jurisdic-tion. Chairman Hill, however, excepts to this last amendment in the minority report, in which he says he dissents from the majority of the committee in requiring any religious test whatever in the formation of a Constitution for a State in the Union, or imposing any conditions whatever except that the State Constitutions shall be repub-

On the floor near by were Tamie, five years old; Antoinette, three years old, and Edith three months old—all dead from dreadful stabs near the heart. A bloody pair of shears told the story. A search was made for the mother. She was found in the cellar banging from a rafter, dead. She bad killed her three children, mortally injured two others, and had then suicided. The two children who were still alive were removed to a neighbor's house, but they will die. No cause for the terrible deed is given. The husband does not think that his wife was insane. Sena-tors Morgan, Stanford and Williams also favored the treaty. The last named argued that the country—especially California—would lose a great deal of trade if the treaty were abrogated, and Canada and British Columbia should make a reciprocity treaty with the Hawaiian Islands. REGULATION BY THE SHIPPER. In a very large measure the discussion of the interstate commerce bill, which recently passed the Senate, has dealt with the provisions of the bill. The measure is, however, largely experimental. To realize its gravity, it must be remembered that it is the first bill of a series in a new realm of legislative control. Legislation having entered a new field, it is far more important to inquire into the foundation upon which it rests, and the natural tendencies of legislation in this direction, than to deal simply with the experimental provisions of an experimental law. By the passage of this Act the Congress of the United States declares, first, that it is within the constitutional powers of that body to adjust, by statutory provision, the relation between shipper and carrier, and to determine the rate at which the carrier shall serve the shipper; and, second, it derates an era of statutory regulation of fares and freights by rail, upon all the commerce to such limitation of earning capacity as may be placed upon it by Congressional enactment. The Congress of the United States is the exponent of the popular will. The shippers fold. The vast majority, therefore, of every constituency are shippers. In a repreoretically the rights of minorities are maintained by constitutional provisions but Constitutions are merely a species of supreme law, the changes and modifications of which are hedged about with more difficulty than the repeal, amendment or also subject to the interpretation of the the will of the majority. The Cullom interstate commerce bill is itself an illustration of the facility with which Constitutions may be set aside, and the great fundamental doctrine of natural rights may be evaded. The provision which prohibits any carrier from transporting goods a long distance for a less rate than that sion of a right. The charge for the short haul may be a reasonable and proper one, and if the freight is carried a greater distarily incurred by the earrier. Since a large volume of traffic carried at a low rate is more profitable than a small volume carried at a high rate, the large of all Government timber lands in the tume may ensue. At the intermediate station the inter-dependence of transportation and production forces the lowest rate consistent with the profitable operation of a line. The natural and voluntary adjustment of transportation to these controlling conditions is a process of evolution most likely to produce that system of operation which will confer the highest benefit upon shall cease, and an arbitrary, statutory or legislative adjustment shall usurp its place. Looking backward, we see a vast volume of capital which has poured into the United States from the idle capital of the old world, and conferred upon us that rapid growth and development which has made us the marvel of modern nations. Looking forward, we see that stream of enriching capital confronted by the menace of arbitrary regulation, by rigid standards which are intended to deny to transportation the benefit of small earnings where larger cannot be obtained-and, beyond this, the declaration of the right and the expediency on the part of the vast majority comprising the shipper class to determine by legislative enactment the rate at which they shall be served. To declare that this policy is not an invasion of natural rights.

results in accordance with these tendencies. They are like the constant forces of nature, which, however seemingly checked, hindered or delayed, sooner or later reach the full measure of results. When a representative legislative body enters upon the control of matters in obedience to the de mands of a constituency the vast majority of which is interested pecuniarily in a given direction, the line of legislation to follow will most certainly follow the constant forces of nature tending in that direction. Thus, the inauguration of a policy of regulating the rates of transportation by Congress in the interest of the majority will sooner or later degenerate into an arbitrary determination on the part of the shipper of the rate at which he is to be served. We repeat that this is rue because the inherent tendency of legislation in this regard is in this direction, and whatever is inherent cannot be resisted. The ownership, then, of railroad property, as existing in the United States to-day, and the development and extension of railroad systems in the future, is therefore placed, and to be placed, under the menace of a policy which at once divorces control from ownership. Before the investment in railroads the capitalist owns the money he proposes to invest. Its investment passes from the control of capital, rom the hand of him who owned it, into the hands of those who are to be served by

In their individual capacity the people are honest, just in their intention, and fair in their purposes. The aggregate expression of these virtues as reflected by legislation is forever distorted and deformed by the selfish greed of classes. Individual men do not desire to steal the property invested in railroads; but the arbitrary, forcible legal reduction of freight rates relieves the individual of the moral odium of the theft, and places it in a measure upon a representative body, called the Legislature or Congress. In this aspect it borrows sanction from the dignity and exaltation of the body practicing it, and thereby loses the repulsive hideousness which attaches to individual larceny. Thus, the process of confiscation which will come in with the inauguration of the new policy will reach to vast lengths of dishonesty beyond the point where individual conscience would permit it to go. Against the inevitable results of this new Congressional policy every dollar invested in railroad property, impelled by the instinct of self-preservation, will enter the political arena, invited by the strongest notives which govern action. When in self-defense, the billions of money invested in railroad property in the United States is literally coerced to enter the caucus, the convention and the lobby of legislation the demoralization may easily be apprehended, and the venal elements of society may be justified in the annual observance of the day upon which this vicious policy

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE RECORD UNION.]

SAN FRANCISCO, January 20th .- The sec ond day's session of the second annual meeting of the California Fruit Union was called to order by President Hatch at 10 A. M. The minutes of the preceding day's session were read. Drury Melone, Chairman of the commitfruit transportation rates, made his report. t was in accord with the RECORD-UNION'S dispatch of last evening-a concession to $300 per car for ten-car trains time to be within twenty-four hours of passenger time between California and Chicago. The only reservation in the matter was in view of the prospective passage of the interstate commerce bill. If that bill became a law, he (Towne) did not think any one knew what effect it would have upon the ship-ping interests. He also thought that, as the bill was now understood, as the bill was now understood, there would be an end to possibil-ity of profitable through shipments, unless under exception granted by the danger of practical confiscation, is to ommission, and that there would be such legislative policy will inevitably work out an innumerable demand for exceptions that the Commission might be unable to reach an application for exception in the case of California fruits until an entire season shall have passed. As for nimself, he was in favor of letting shippers become stockholders, and to let them hold suitable amount of stock-not too large an amount-and he was also willing that the proposed method of disposing of fruit through selling by auction should be thoroughly tried by the Trustees.

The Board of Directo's shall, by compiling such facts and statistics as may be at their command, arrange a table of distribution subject to such changes and modifications as the market may, from time to time, demand; and t shall become the duty of the General Manger to regulate the distribution strictly in accordance with such provisions. All fruits consigned by the Union to Eastern agents shall be offered, by the anctioneer appointed by the General Manager, at public auction, and sold to the highest bidders for choice of lots; the auctioneer's fees to be deducted from the agent's commission. Judge Blackwood moved that the pro posed substitute be taken up by paragraphs and considered. Carried.

sustain his position that the auction plan was the most profitable to the grower. Among others he read the following from the Secretary of the Florida Fruit Union:

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., January 9, 1887. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., January 9, 1887.

H. Weinstock, Esq., Sacramento, Cal.—DEAR SIR: Your favor of December 31st to hand, and contents noted. Regarding the auction system, I have this to say: It is a well-known fact that for upwards of fifty years Mediterranean fruit has been sold in the United States through the auction system almost exclusively. Last year something like 3,000,000 boxes of foreign fruit were sold in the United States, and I am informed that nine-tenths of these were sold in New York city alone. Our experience with the auction system so far has been highly satisfactory, and the more familiar our people become with it the system so far has been highly satisfactory, and the more familiar our people become with it the strenger grows the liking for it. Personally I consider it the only proper method for the sale of all fruit. It disposes of the fruit quickly, hence the money goes to the growers without unnecessary and vexatious delays. When fruit is sold at auction a fixed price is put upon it; that fixed price is the amount the purchaser pays. If a box of oranges brings $5 in the auction-room, the purchaser must sell for more than $5; he can't afford to sell for less; thus the market price is established. Auction brings the dealers in competition; the old method of sales through commission houses places the fruit in competition with itself. But from your circulars I judge you fully understand all this, hence will not bore you further.

Regarding your idea as to sales at auction at all points that can take a carload, I must say

Regarding your idea as to sales at auction at all points that can take a carload, I must say our views differ widely. I say, decidedly, sell your fruit at auction, but confine it to a few of the large cities. Let these cities have certain territories to supply. Take New York and Boston, for instance. These two points handle nearly all the Mediterranean fruit, yet they supply nearly every market in the United States. Brokers in New York and Boston representing dealers all over the East and West attend the auction sales regularly, and purchase immense quantities of fruit to fill their "out of town" orders. Suppose you supply each little hamlet capable of taking a car-load, the result would be low prices in these small towns, and ould be low prices in these small towns, and ou would cut off the trade which would otheryou would cut off the trade which would other-wise be forced to buy in the larger cities, thus leaving the large cities with no outlet for their fruit. In the small towns the buyers being few in numbers, can easily combine and agree to bid only a certain sum for your fruit, and thus secure it at almost any price they choose to pay; a portion of it must at least be sold at their figures, but if the balance is withdrawn and held for a future sale you gre still in the same figures, but if the balance is withdrawn and held for a future sale you are still in the same box. I presume you have witnessed sales of fruit at auction in the larger cities, New York, at least, and, having done so, you will no doubt agree with me that such a combination as I mentioned above is wholly impracticable in a place like New York or Chicago.

I trust I have placed my views so that you can use them to an advantage. I am very deeply interested in the struggle you people are making to throw off the old yoke (commission sales), and I heartily wish you God speed in your undertaking. Very truly yours, A. M. IVES.

Mr. Weinstock read letters from Boston mmission merchants, setting forth that arge quantities of California fruits could be disposed of by auction. The letters contained prices which Florida products had commanded. One letter said that the fruit going to twenty houses, cutting the throats of each other, would result in killing the market; but one auction for the consignment would firmly establish prices. The private sales system the speaker regarded as ruinous. It choked competition by a process of combination of agents, giv-ing exclusive control in each large district o the combination. We must encourage the keenest competition among retailers. We appoint a man in Milwaukee, for in stance, as our agent. This man is engaged n other business interests. A dealer comes to him and says: "If you will permit me to handle your California fruits, I will give ou all my trade in some other important margin for profit and acquiesces, and com-petition for our fruits is practically denied. Mr. Weinstock was applauded by the audience in a very cordial manner. Mr. Block, of Santa Clara, described some features of the auction business, citing one where six lots of products were on sale and only six bidders present. The result was that each bidder obtained the particular lot branch of commerce." The agent sees a

I do not say that it should be adopted in every town, but in large cities like Chicago, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Baltimore, Milwaukee and Cincinnati, it should be estab-lished and fairly tested.

Mr. Buck, of Vacaville, desired the whole subject referred to the Board of Diectors, giving them discretionary power dispose of all fruits. Mr. Markley thought the auction plan of sales might be the best possible way of selling our fruit, but thought it better to simply recommend it to the Board of Trustees for adoption or to give them authority to sell in the manner, if their judgment so dicta-ted, he therefore moved that instead of adopting the new section above proposed by Mr. Weinstock, to add to the present ction 10 the following:

The Board of Trustees are authorized to sell fruit at auction when in their judgment they think best to do so. Subscribers o the stock shall contract with the other subscribers that they will not sell any ruits for Eastern shipment to any except nembers of said union (Eastern shipment meaning east of Ogden), reserving the right to sell any and all fruits for any other

After a quite lengthy discussion, this amendment was adopted.

Mr. Block suggested that the by-laws should be so amended as to authorize the Beard of Trustees to appoint an Assistant Manager, if in its judgment the same is needed. He said if one had been employed in the East this last season no such work as has just come to light—in which Dudley, Clap & Doe, of New York, had the pick of the cars of fruit, and at their own Roard of Trustees to appoint an Assistant ley, Clap & Doe, of New York, had the pick of the cars of fruit, and at their own rice-would never have taken place. A discussion followed, in which it was

Board ample power to employ all persons required to transact the business of the mended so as to include the authority to employ an Assistant Manager.
After some further discussion the matter was voted down, for the reason that the power is already conferred upon the Trusees by the by-laws. Mr. Weinstock moved to amend Section 0 by striking out the words, " Provided hat for all fruit and vegetables so consigned a commission of not to exceed 5 per cent. of the sale value of said fruits and veget-ables and the actual freight, shall be paid

The motion was seconded and a discus-Mr. Block objected to striking out the entire 5 per cent., as it was a source of revenue to the Union, and this was a matter hat could not be overlooked.

Mr. Weinstock replied that inasmuch 0 per cent. commission was allowed the Eastern agent in accordance with the byaws, that this would still be taken from he sales, and as the work of selling could be done at the East for from 7 to 7½ per cent., a margin of 2½ to 3 per cent. could thus be saved and come into the hands of the treasury for expenses.

P. E. Platt said the fruit could all be sold for a commission of 10 per cent., and cover the 2½ or 3 per cent., as stated by Mr. Weinstock.

Mr. Weinstock here read a letter he had lent of the Sacramento Board of Trade. reciting correspondence between the con nittee of the California Fruit-Growers' Convention, and General Manager Towne and C. P. Huntington. The letter requested the committee to adopt resolutions oppos-ing the long and short haul clause of the interstate bill, and to send the same to Con-foreign fruits sold in this country, nearly all was sold at auction, which system brings the dealers into competition. Mr. Isador Jacobs claimed that members President Hatch replied no, that could !

would not stand this restriction, and urged the repeal of the provision.

Mr. Meek indorsed the objection to this feature of the by-laws, and moved to reonsider and strike out the final clause of Markley's amendment to Section 16, which contained this requirement.

The Chair called upon P. E. Platt for his views as a shipper upon the subject, and he replied that he thought it was better to illegal. He believed the best interests of the members of the Union was to have shipper members of the Union handle and take to the markets at the East as much of the fruits as possible.

Mr. Buck thought the matter need not be in the by-laws, but be left that to the discretion of the Board of Trustees. The clause was then stricken out by manimous vote A committee was ordered to select and nominate members for a Board of Trus-tees, for the approval of the Convention, and report within fifteen minutes.

Mr. Markley offered the following reso-Intion: Resolved, That this Board of Trustees hereby requested to give the auction plan selling fruit a thorough and systematic trial.

Unanimously adopted.

The committee appointed at the last meeting of the State Horticultural Society to fix uniform sizes for fruit boxes for sizes, and the report was adopted. W. N. Williams, of Fresno, stated that the grapes he had packed in cork dust and the grapes he had packed in cork dust and tule for experiment, had all rotted. He reported that Malaga grapes had proved excellent keepers and shippers, and prophesied they would be the leading shipping grape in the future. Grapes of this variety he shipped November 6th to New York, and were sold. December 10th.

fect condition The Committee on Nominations reported for Trustees of the Union for the ensuing year, A. T. Hatch of Solano, H. Weinstock The nominations were unanimously approved. Mr. Weinstock said he desired to call up for consideration the subject of removing the general office of the Union to Sacramento, as most of the work of the Union had to be done there. Quite a general acquiescence with this was expressed, and the matter was left to the Board of Trustees as to the necessary steps required to be taken under the law of incorporation for such a change. The Con-vention then adjourned sine die.

(SECOND DISPATCH.) SAN FRANCISCO, January 20th.—The Board of Trustees of the California Fruit Union met this evening and elected the following officers for the ensuing year President, A. T. Fruit Union Shipments ir. 1886. The following facts are included in the Secretary's report of last season's operations under the Fruit Union. The shipments commenced May 19, 1886, and closed November 18th. The early shipments consisted largely of apricots, and, although sent by express train, paid nearly 4½ cents bound net. Shortly after, the prices in the East dropped, so that the net returns fell to 3 cents a pound. During the early part of the year experiments in shipping currants were tried, and proved failures as they spoiled in transit. The price for plums in the East during the year has been but 11 that each bidder obtained the particular lot the wanted, at his own price.

Santa Clara county shipped the next largest amount, 1,200,000 pounds; Alameda county 650,000 pounds, Yolo county 480,000 pounds, and was almost entirely from one shipper; Placer and Sacramento counties shipped nearly equal amounts, the former sending 363,790 pounds, and the atter a little less than those figures. The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from proprietary medicines, no doubt has largely benefited the consumers, as well as reliev-ing the burden of bome manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's Aumust Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75cent size. At the conclusion of the discussion upon amending the first paragraph of Section 10, the entire paragraph about consignors naming destination of their fruit, the charge of 5 per cent. of sales of such consignments, and that the Union shall not purchase fruit, was stricken out, Judge Blackwood called up again that part of the final clause of Section 10, adopted as Markley's amendment, which required stockholders not to sell fruit for Eastern shipment to any one except members of the Union. He denounced the clause as impracticable, said it would not be lived up to, was unfair restriction, and he himself would not be bound by it.

WELL PLEASED WITH IT. Eugene J. Gregory's Opinion of the Citrus Fair at Chicago,

Among the passengers who arrived from the East vesterday morning was Eugene J. Gregory, of this city, who went to Chicago as one of the managers of the Citrus Fair. He was in splendid health and spirits, but glad to get back here, as all Sacramentans are, and enthusiastic over the success of strike the provision out, as it was impracticable, and beyond this, he believed it was in advancing. Business called him to San Francisco yesterday afternoon, but a RECORD UNION representative had a few minu.es' conversation with him, during which he gave his opinion substantially as "The fair was an assured success, the re sult meeting my expectations in the fullest sense. Notwithstanding the fact that the exhibit opened and continued under the disadvantages arising from an extreme cold spell, varying from zero to 20° below, which had the effect of preventing an increased attendance, I think the association can well rest in the satisfaction of having secured the direct and personal attention of secured the direct and personal attention of the majority of representative Eastern peo-ple to the character and excellence of the fruit exhibited, whereby the management were enabled to satisfactorily demonstrate the validity of our claims in favor of Central and Northern California against al other portions of the State. The universal opinion of both expert and casual ob-servers was that the fruit was, without doubt, the finest ever seen in Chicago. As one proof I will quote the voluntary assertion made by the largest fruit merchant in Chicago, who, after a slight examination, unhesitatingly pronounced the quality the finest he had ever seen, and further gaveit as his judgment that, while the best stock in the Chicago market was selling at $3 50 per box, he could readily realiz and were sold December 10th, and in per- 86 per box, he could readily realize ited in the fair, because of the fruit being more uniform in size color solidity and richness of flavor than those grown in any other commercial section-not excepting of Sacramento, L. W. Buck of Solano, P. the Palermo, Messina or Mediterranean E. Platt of Sacramento, Webster Treat of products. This verdict was in accord with Yolo, G. D. Kellogg of Placer, H. C. Morthe entire Eastern fruit trade. I give it as rell of Santa Clara, John Markley of the evidence of experts on citrus products. Sonoma, and H. W. Meek of Alamela. One may easily deduct the practical inference from such evidence, as it readily dem onstrates all we may wish to claim for our portion of the Golden State, and the re-sults of our efforts will be shown in the near future. No pains were spared in the effort to give full prominence to the merits of Central and Northern California, especially in demonstrating the character, qua ity and worth of soil, etc., as compared with southern sections. I am much pleased to be able to report that the argument offered were convincing and fully appre ciated; that many home-seekers are now turning their attention to the right direction, and that it is a question of the near future when our facilities will be largely ought for and taken advantage of by the ost desirable class of immigration.

"The exhibit was unfortunate enough to strike a 35° below zero blizzard in transit, and the fruit was naturally frozen solid as rocks. Knowing that, so long as it could be kept in a frozen state, it would retain its color and size, due care was taken to prevent the temperature of the hall becoming high enough to cause a thaw—though it was quite a difficult problem to meet the requirements of the spectators and the condition of the fruit at the same time. However, we managed to take care of both until the natural and continued warmth of the room was asserted, and the oranges, etc., had begun to show the effects of thawing. Then we decided to close the fair—but not for reason of decay. Contrary to the usual rule, the stock merely lessened in size, but we lost none by either rot or decay—an-other fact that demonstrates our superior-ity over all other sections in orange culture, in the production of unirrigated fruit. This fact was also remarked upon by the experts. prise at the quality and earliness of the exhibit, and I am very sanguine in the belief that the result of this initiatory effort to advertise the heretofore unknown (2).

Then we may claim much more attention than was our fortune to receive in the present instance. We gave out about 5,000 complimentary invitations to representative people of Chicago and other Eastern cities, and the greater portion of those invited visited us lespite the cold weather, and I am satisfied that another year there will be a rush to see the exhibit, people's curiosity and de-sire for information having been aroused. It was not our oranges and lemons alon-that surprised the good people back there. SARSFIELD'S REMEDY for the Blood and Constipation!
SARSFIELD'S REMEDY for Diphtheria and Pneumonia!
SARSFIELD'S CHRONIC ULCER SALVE!

The people of the Interior will remember that a few years ago. J. P. SARSFIELD, of Sacramento, then a hard-working dairyman, became fortunately possessed of certain valuable remedial agents. With these he effected in Sacramento and Central California remarkable cures, and drew the approving attention of many physicians. So wide-spread became the fame of his remedies that business men were convinced of their entire reliability, and of the truth of the marvels they accomplished. The result has been the formation of a Company to aid him in putting these needs for suffering humanity broadly upon sale. The Company has its Depot at No. 115 EDDY STREET, SAN FRANCISCO, but the medicines can be had of all reputable druggists.

The making of Certificates has related so largely to fraud, that the public has naturally grown suspicious of them. But those here referred to are by such prominent citizens, of such irreproachable character, and the cures are so well known, and the witnesses so easy to reach, that we make the references with-
